Benchmark Report 2022

We are thrilled to present our first benchmark report, a testament to the remarkable journey of growth and impact achieved by our legal experts, donors, volunteers, clients, partners, and others in the Ecojustice community who share our vision for a thriving environment protected by strong, well-enforced laws.

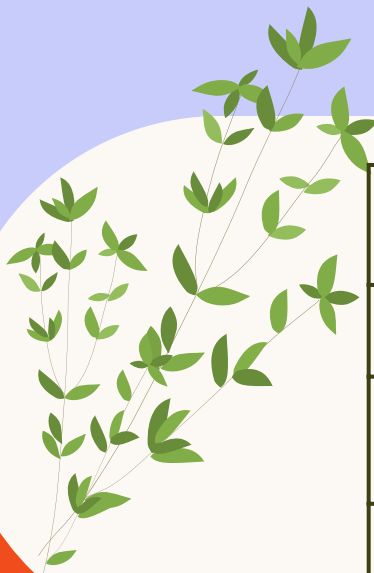

As we delve into our metrics and accomplishments, it becomes abundantly clear that our dedication, coupled with unwavering support from our community of passionate individuals, has propelled us to new heights of positive change. At this critical moment in environmental history, not only have we extended the scale of our programs but we have also deepened in significance for the planet and humanity by targeting our efforts towards the highest impact opportunities and harnessing the collective power of our work by integrating three strategic functions – litigation, law reform and strategic communications.

We do all of this in the context of our commitments to Reconciliation with Indigenous Peoples, and Justice, Equity, Diversity and Inclusion, which we uphold in every component of our work to combat the climate crisis, defend nature and fight for a healthy environment for all.
